PROGRAM DIRECTOR'S UPDATE

Here we are after another month of #StayHomeStaySafe. Now that the weather is finally warming up, we can spend more time outdoors instead of being cooped up inside. The Program Team is continuing to bring to you more of the programs you have been enjoying, with new programs online!

I don't know about you, but I've been getting a little stir crazy being home all the time. Now that the weather is getting nicer, I've been able to sit outside on my patio and enjoy a book, and I have been taking long walks around my neighborhood. My parents had planned on coming to visit at the beginning of May so we could go to the Tulip Festival in Holland and explore western Michigan. Clearly the trip didn't happen, but we've been staying connected through the phone and weekly Zoom calls. I am now counting down the days until I (hopefully) fly home for Thanksgiving; according to My Trips on Delta, the flight is only 177 days away!

Online religious programming is still ongoing. The Daily Minyans are still going strong and have been extended through the end of June. The Second Cup Study Group with Judah Ari-Gur has also been extended through the end of June and updated signups for both can be found at congregationofmoses.org. This past month we began holding Saturday morning services over Zoom, which are continuing through the end of June. We also joined Temple B'nai Shalom in Benton Harbor for another wonderful Shabbat evening service. We will continue to offer online religious services through this uncertain time.

The Ethical Life: Jewish Values in an Age of Choice with Rabbi Spivak is holding one last class on Monday, June 22nd at both 1:00 pm and 7:00 pm. Discussing the topic "Is Lying Ever Ethical?," we will examine the concept of truth in personal and interpersonal ethics using ancient and contemporary texts.

The Ethical Life series will continue in the fall when we hope things will return to a more normal pattern. We are also continuing the online book club and partnering with TBI for the discussion. The next CoM/TBI book club will focus on the novel Davita's Harp by Chaim Potok. Book club will meet on Thursday, June 25th at 7:00 pm over Zoom. To RSVP and get the Zoom link, email programdirector@congregationofmoses.org.

by the Congregation of Moses for the benefit of its members. The deadline for submitting articles, photos and ads is the 18th of each month, for publication the following month.

Please send submissions to both the editor, at bulletin@congregationofmoses.org and assistant editor, at congofmosesbulletin@hotmail.com.

Our online social programming continues as well. We will still have Havdalah Happy Hours on Saturday nights, now beginning at 8:45 pm due to sunset coming later in these almost-summer days.

The current stay-at-home order is through June 12th. Now that the weather is nicer, we will begin exploring ways that we can come together in person and do so safely once the stay-at-home order is lifted. Stay tuned to see updates on what in-person programming and services will look like.

We hope that you are staying healthy and safe during this time. We can't wait until we can see everyone in person again!

For now, access to the synagogue is limited to employees only.

If you have any needs, contact Shirley Mengel, who will be in the office 8:00 am-noon most weekdays.

LEAD PRAYERS DURING HIGH HOLIDAY SERVICES

We love people who participate in services by leading prayers from the bima. Whether one prayer or a whole section of the service, we welcome and encourage such participation.

That's especially true for the High Holidays. Every year, several of our members lead part of the morning service for Rosh Hashanah or Yom Kippur. You can too!

Please let me know that you would like to lead a prayer or prayers on the High Holidays and I will provide you with the material and all the personal help you need to enjoy the experience of leading.

Let me hear from you.

June CoM / TBI Book Club

Thursday, June 25th at 7:00 pm on Zoom

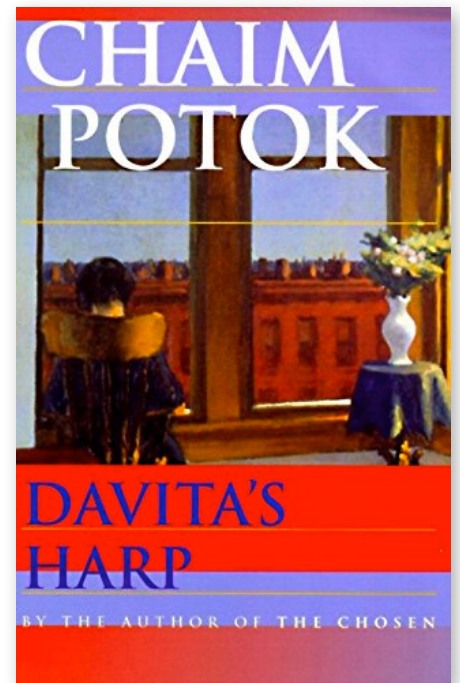

The next book discussion between CoM and Temple B'nai Israel will be held on June 25 at 7:00 pm.

Please email Sharon Kaufman at programdirector@congregationofmoses.org for the Zoom link if you'd like to join the discussion.

The book selection is Davita's Harp by Chaim Potok, a historical novel written in 1985. The story is set in 1930s -1940s New York City. Davita's parents (one Jewish, one Gentile) are dedicated communists who eschew religion. Davita, keenly aware of the Spanish Civil War, Italy's invasion of Ethiopia, lynchings in the South and Hitler's Europe, seeks solace and finds comfort in Judaism.

You can order through our locally-owned bookstores, this is a bookstore/ Bookbug or Kazoo Books.

Inexpensive used copies can also be found online at websites such as Abe Books, eBay and Amazon.

FROM THE DESK OF THE RELIGIOUS SCHOOL DIRECTOR

Wow! What a year! I am writing this on Sunday afternoon, May 24th after our End of Year Celebration. If you had asked me at the Tu b'Shevat seder what our celebration today would be like, I never in my wildest dreams could have imagined all the little Zoom windows filled with the smiles and laughter of more than 75 of my favorite people! Because of the efforts of our teachers, rabbis, volunteers, parents and students, our first ever End of Year Celebration on Zoom touched many hearts and made me feel a little bit closer to each of them while apart.

We began teaching our students online on March 18. At that time we thought it would be for a few weeks. Even at the Purim Carnival, we could not imagine that we would be considering the possibility of continuing in this manner for part or all of the next school year as we finish this one.

We had some successes in our online journey. We learned new teaching techniques that we know we will take back to the classroom when we can safely return. Games like Kahoot! and Factile Jeopardy made learning and review so much fun that kids were begging their teachers to create game after game for them. I don't think they had a clue that they were learning. Getting to school was easier for children who live outside of Kalamazoo County and we were able to imagine a future hybrid school with some students in the classroom and others joining them online. Teacher availability increased because even when our teachers had to be out of town, they could log on from wherever they were. Today teachers were logged on from New Mexico, Chicago and Detroit. Students came to school from their cabins up north. And some attended school from the comfort of their bed!

We met pets, saw favorite toys and learned who likes to wear PJs to school. The teachers and I felt honored to be welcomed into so many homes. In some ways, we felt closer to each other because the Zoom windows let us see each other's lives in a different way than before.

We also learned that we will need to make some adjustments if we have to do this again next year. While all of our students had the necessary devices, some children's internet connections were not strong. Other students had trouble focusing online. There are so many things that teachers notice about the students in the classroom that are hard to see online. And what does a teacher do when a student just walks away from the computer screen?

I really missed the casual impromptu conversations that I have in the hallway when students talk to me about the things that are important to them. Most of all, I missed the hugs.

Thank you for the honor of teaching our children.

NEWS FROM HADASSAH

Medical Miracle at Hadassah: Surgeons Save Man with Rod Through His Head

About four weeks ago, Kamel Abdel Rahman went to see how the construction was going on his new apartment. As he looked around, one wrong turn caused him to fall from the second floor onto an iron rod which penetrated his skull. It traveled from one side clear to the other.

“I did not feel any pain at all,” Rahman said. “I do not know how to explain it.” But when he saw the look of shock on his family’s faces, he knew something was seriously wrong.

Rahman was rushed to Hadassah Hospital Ein Kerem. There, a multidisciplinary team of specialists carefully analyzed the wound for hours to ensure that they would not cause an artery to bleed, which could result in sudden death. Once assured, they strategically removed the rod.

Following this first successful procedure, Rahman needed a brain catheterization and another complicated 10-hour surgery.

“I have no words. They saved my ability to speak and to walk. They saved my life,” says Rahman.

Hadassah-backed Bill Strengthening Holocaust Education Heads to White House

On May 13th, the US Senate joined the US House in approving the Never Again Education Act. We can officially say that this bill is headed to the White House.

This is a major victory. Hadassah's support for the Never Again Education Act is helping to change the course of history. America is closer than ever to ensuring we will never forget the tragedy of the Holocaust, that students will learn its universal lessons of tolerance, and that educators will be better prepared to teach this absolutely critical subject matter accurately and confidently. Our children and future generations deserve nothing less.

What's Up With God?

A discussion on Zoom, hosted by Sarah Hurwitz at Jewishlive.org

Sarah Hurwitz is the author of "Here All Along: Finding Meaning, Spirituality, and a Deeper Connection to Life -- in Judaism (After Finally Choosing to Look There)," about her rediscovery of Judaism. This title was chosen last fall as our Jewish community read.

In this series, Sarah talks with rabbis, authors and thinkers on contemporary Judaism. A recent guest was Rabbi Jamie Korngold, "The Adventure Rabbi," who visited our community a few years ago.

The Ethical Life: Jewish Values in an Age of Choice

From political and financial scandals to rapid progress in biomedical sciences and technology, the complex issues of modern society are, at their core, issues of ethical and moral concern.

Now, more than ever, we require a solid understanding of how Jewish ethics can inform our discussions and decisions about the critical questions of the day. Judaism has a long history of wrestling with moral questions, responding to them in a way that considers all sides of an issue.

The Ethical Life: Jewish Values in an Age of Choice from the Jewish Theological Seminary will be presented by Rabbi Spivak online.
